Tax relief faces test

Joint committee sends bill to floor, hopes expressed

SACRAMENTO — After working past midnight Tuesday, the six member joint conference committee on tax relief will present a bill to both the state senate and assembly today calling for a rebate to homeowners and renters.

Committee member Floyd S. Mori (D — Pleasanton) said if the bill passes it will provide a $900 million package of which some $650 million will go to homeowners and $235 million will go to renters in the form of tax relief.

This means annual rebates averaging $225 to $250 will go to 4.2 million homeowners and $118 per rebate will go to 2.6 million renters. Mori said one major change since the bill was rejected by the Senate Monday is to "stick more money in homeowner relief basically for those in the middle income or $15,000 to $30,000 bracket."

Sen. John Holmdahl (D — Castro Valley), who chairs the committee said yesterday that he thinks the changes are good. "I think the bill has a fighting chance," Holmdahl said.

Another major change Assemblyman Mori pointed out was adjusting the proposed registration fees on new vehicles from 2 per cent to 2.8 per cent to be distributed to cities and counties.

The fees would raise an estimated $590 million over the next five years, and the tax committee voted to give $354 million of that to counties and $236 million to cities.

Livermore speed factory case

Innocent plea on drug charges

LIVERMORE — A 29-year-old woman who called fire fighters last weekend because of a gas leak in her home has been charged with three felony counts of running a major amphetamine factory in town.

Sherry Prince pleaded not guilty yesterday before Municipal Court Judge Mark Eaton on charges of manufacturing, possessing for sale, and possessing the ingredients of "speed," the street name for amphetamines. She is free on $25,000 bail.

She is set to appear again Sept. 27 to set a date for a preliminary hearing.

Noted East Bay criminal attorney Howard C. "Gus" Hall of Oakland appeared with her yesterday.

Hall is the former law partner of Alameda County Superior Court Judge Stanley P. Golde, an ex-FBI agent and ex-district attorney.

He is "a very sharp cookie," said one insider.

Prince was arrested Saturday afternoon after she reportedly called fire officials to report a "propane" gas leak.

Fire fighters called police, who claim the gas was lethal methylamine, a by-product in the manufacture of amphetamines.

Police say 2½ ounces of "speed" were found in the 3754 Oregon Way home, along with an elaborate, expensive backyard laboratory and the contraband ingredients to make the drug.

Federal Drug Enforcement Administration officials said the lab was capable of producing $20,000 to $100,000 worth of amphetamines per week.

Prince and a handful of fire fighters were treated at Valley Memorial Hospital for burns on their hands and legs.

Police said the gas could have exploded and taken the house and part of the neighborhood with it.

Self made woman

She's come a long way, baby. Cari Wood, a Dublin mother of four, used to wear the costume of a Playboy Bunny, back in the days when she was supporting kids and working at the San Francisco night club. Now, she's training to be an auto mechanic. "I love it, and my sons are proud of me, too," she says.

Livermore traffic death

Suspect fined for speeding

LIVERMORE — Russell Allen Wilson was found guilty of speeding but not of the charge of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Tony Thomas, 8, last spring.

Judge William Gale handed down the "guilty of lesser included offense" after a little more than a day of testimony. Wilson, who now lives in Orange, was fined $65 and placed on two-year probation. His mother tearfully explained after the decision that the family had planned for a long time on moving to Southern California after Wilson graduated from high school last spring.

Judge Gale cited several conflicts in the testimony, where the speed of Wilson's Datsun was given from 35 to 50 miles per hour by different witnesses and investigating officers. There also was conflicting testimony about the action of the victim, ranging from statements that he was "walking," "darting rapidly," or "running at full speed" into the crosswalk at the time of the accident.

And there were questions about the speed limit signs and no testimony on whether or not the yellow warning light was flashing.

The judge said, based on the testimony, he came to the conclusion that the defendant was speeding.

Four busnap victims may be examined

OAKLAND (AP) — The defense in the mass Chowchilla kidnapping case has asked that four victims of the hijacking be tested by a psychiatrist to determine if they suffered emotional harm in the ordeal, court documents released Wednesday disclosed.

New hope for fair parade

Representatives of the Alameda County Fair Association board and Pleasanton Lions Club will meet in early October to discuss the possibility of reviving the annual parade at County Fair time.

Board members were apprised of the Lions Club proposal at Tuesday's monthly meeting.

The parade was last held in 1976, being organized by the Pleasanton Bicentennial Committee. However, no local group came forward to provide the organizational expertise and manpower necessary prior to this past June and the parade was dropped.

Fair Association directors had previously stated they would participate again by underwriting the cost of judging awards if a community group(s) organized the parade and covered all other expenses. In the long run, the cost of insurance proved an insurmountable barrier.

The Pleasanton JayCees and Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce have been instrumental in conducting the parade in past years, along with the cooperation of the City of Pleasanton.

A cherished event in the Valley for the better part of four decades, the parade as normally held on the first Sunday of the annual County Fair.

Lee Hall, secretary-manager of the Fair Association, said if the parade can be revived directors would hope the same time frame — the first Sunday of the Fair — would be utilized.

In recent years the annual parade at Fair time had shared the spotlight with several other crowd-pleasers, particularly one initiated by San Francisco radio station KNBR.

The Fair parade had annually drawn between 10,000 and 20,000 persons to Pleasanton for opening day of the Fair.

Tips on diabetes

A free health dialogue series entitled "Understanding Diabetes" will begin tonight at 7 o'clock in the lecture room of the Family Medical Center at 9260 Alcosta Blvd. in San Ramon.

A registered dietician will demonstrate how to cook for diabetics. A specialist in endocrinology and metabolic diseases will speak on adult and juvenile diabetes and on continuing research in the field.

Streets closed for seal

The following streets will be closed Thursday in Pleasanton as city work crews apply a "slurry seal" to the pavement.

Ramblewood and Loganberry ways, and Fair, Second and San Antonio streets.

Cars should not be driven on the streets between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m., and water should not run onto the fresh pavement.

Fair directors adopt $3.5 million budget

The Alameda County Fair Association board has adopted a $3.5 million budget for 1978, an increase of approximately $700,000 from the estimated figure for the current year.

Fair directors also approved a new five-year contract with Lloyd Hillgoss and Foley and Burke Shows. The Redwood City-based carnival has played at the Alameda County Fair for the past 12 years.

The contract calls for Hillgoss to receive 55 cents per each paid fairgrounds admission in 1978. He will get 56 cents in 1979, 57 cents in 1980-81 and 59 cents in 1982.

The agreement also states that Hillgoss must pay for additional sheriff's deputies as deemed necessary in the carnival area.

Directors also approved a two-year pact for bar and cafeteria concessions with Hillside Catering of Albany. The second year is subject to service in 1978 being satisfactory to the Fair Association.

Budget figures for 1978 released by the finance committee show $2,905,000 for operations and $3,087,326 for expenditures. The difference between the latter figure and the total of $3.5 million goes to capital expenditures. Estimated budget figure for the present year is $2,830,485.

Dee Wilson, chairman of the buildings and ground committee, reported that seven of eight projects, mainly improvement and maintenance, are contingent on Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., signing AB 700.

The remaining project, replacing of a two-inch main gas line, will be accomplished by the association and done this year.

Secretary-Manager Lee Hall said that if Brown signs the bill, the Fair Association would submit an amended budget for 1978 later this year.

The association's organizational structure has been cut from 25 positions in 1976-77 to 19 for 1977-78. Hall explained that the difference is in building security attendants. Service in the future will be provided by a contractual agreement with a private security firm.

At present, Security Eye mans the stable gate area with additional security personnel stationed around the total fairgrounds.

Fairgrounds employees received cost of living increases and some, where permitted, also gained step increases. Hall and assistant manager Pet Bailey are tied to state salary classifications, Hall's being for managers of Class VI fairs and Bailey's that of assistant managers for all fairs.

In other business, directors learned that County Supervisors have disapproved budget funds for the annual county farm products exhibit at the Alameda County Fair.

The exhibit is regarded as the only county exhibit that reflects the farming life and products of this county. Tom

Shoemaker, agriculture commissioner for the county, had requested $3,000 for the exhibit.

Directors recognized the naming of long-time director Dale Carriethers as "Cattleman of the Year."

Otho Green, an appointee of Supervisor John George, submitted his letter of resignation. Green had been on the board since March.

Supervisor Fred Cooper, via a letter, asked why there was a decline in concession revenues to the Fair, comparing 1977's figures with those of 1975. Hall explained there were 38,000 fewer paid admissions.

Hall and maintenance chief Lew Alexander reported on a visitation to the Billings, Montana, Fair, and directors authorized Bailey to attend the annual Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona which commences this weekend. Directors will attend the Fresno District Fair on Oct. 6.

Fair directors will host their annual barbecue this Friday night at the Fairgrounds.

VCSD goes with state buy-in guide

DUBLIN — The Valley Community Services District (VCSD) has accepted state recommendations concerning "buy-in" charges the City of Pleasanton would have to pay to use the expanded VCSD Wastewater Treatment Plant.

VCSD directors reached their agreement Tuesday night. This was done just under a new Sept. 15 deadline set by the State Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB), Division of Water Quality. Sept. 30 was the original state deadline. Grant funding for the expansion could have been jeopardized if the deadline had not been met.

In motion form, four of five VCSD directors agreed to accept the state's determination that Pleasanton's buy-in costs should be $1,147,221. This would entitle Pleasanton to daily capacity rights of 1.5 million gallons.

Pleasanton is transferring only their Sunol plant operation to VCSD.

The motion further stated that VCSD would reserve an additional .84 mgd for Pleasanton for which Pleasanton would pay VCSD "current connection fees in force at that time."

VCSD Director Lila Euler amended the motion with, "This basic cost is subject to additional costs related to interest and expenses as well as contingent responsibilities in connection with the Volk-McLain litigation and any other litigation which might be applicable."

Director Ron Hyde consented to Euler's amendment.

Director Ann Jolley made another motion concerning the issue.

"That the board reaffirm VCSD's present policy that the $735 connection fee has no relation to any funds set aside by any other public agency for expansion; the entire connection fee belongs to VCSD."

That motion was adopted unanimously by the board.

A third motion made by Hyde requested the board recognize that both VCSD and Pleasanton have certain contingent liability with respect to the Volk-McLain lawsuit now pending.

Hyde continued, "We acknowledge that Pleasanton has offered, in connection with that suit, to pay up to $145 per connection, plus interest, plus court costs and legal fees, and that, beyond that point, any costs that may arise to both parties shall be submitted to binding arbitration to determine the pro rata share of each party."

Sewer tie to VCSD pending

The city also is willing to pay beginning today "a proportionate share (28 percent) of the legal costs" involved in the suit. The city's offer also would establish separate plant expansion funds for VCSD and Pleasanton. The minimum $735 connection fee — VCSD's current charge — for anything above the city's initial 1.5 mgd would go into a separate kitty if the connection were in Pleasanton. —by Ron Rodriguez

Vorelco of California, Volkwagon's property management company, has leased its 36,000 square-foot office building to an Emeryville computer company after a four-year search for tenants. Processor Technology Corp., manufacturers of home computer units, is expected to move in next month.

Huge VW office building leased

PLEASANTON — After vacancy for more than four years the 36,000 square-foot office building in the Pleasanton Business Center has been leased to an Emeryville computer firm.

Vorelco of California Inc., a property management subsidiary of Volkswagon of America, has sublet the facility to Processor Technology Corp., a manufacturer of home and office computer units.

The building has been vacant since Volkswagon of America consolidated its Northern California distributorship, located in Pleasanton, with the Southern California operation in 1973.

Volkswagon maintained a training center in a smaller building on the 25-acre site but the two largest buildings were unoccupied for over two years while Vorelco sought tenants for the property zoned for general industrial use.

In August of 1975 it leased the giant 144,000 square-foot automobile warehouse to Tennis Town which built 20 indoor courts there. However the two-story office building remained a problem.

Last spring Vorelco applied to Pleasanton for a zoning change 150 square-foot that would allow it to lease suites within the office building but the city only granted a minimum size of 2000 square-feet.

"We found there was a real need for small office space," said Vorelco's manager, Jim Stratton, who blasted what he called "total incompetence on the part of the city fathers who didn't understand what we were trying to do."

Stratton added the problem became "academic" with the leasing of the building to Processor Technology which is expected to move in next month with about 100 employees. Recently Vorelco received permission to subdivide the property into single acre lots to ease leasing and allow it to build to suit tenants.

The industrial park, on the east side of Interstate 680 where it joins 580, was first developed by the Reynolds C. Johnson Co. of Danville in 1969. Over 100 acres are zoned for industrial use along Johnson Industrial Drive south to Stoneridge Drive. —by Tom Burke

Sewer pact stumbles with VCSD

Final settlement in the protracted debate over closing Pleasanton's Sunol Boulevard Sewage Treatment Plant — the "blue bubble" — and piping the effluent to Valley Community Services District's modern facility has run aground on two crucial points.

VCSD directors are insisting the city join in any "contingent liability" that may tumble from the long standing suit between the district and Dublin - San Ramon developers Volk-McLain.

VCSD won the suit, but the developers have taken the case to appellate court.

VCSD directors also want complete claim to each $735 connection fee charged after the city "buys" into the plant with an initial 1.5 million gallons per day.

Both sides agree to a state mediator suggested $1.15 million price tag to marry the two.

Pleasanton City Manager Clay Brown says Pleasanton is "not a party to the original Volk - McLain agreement," and hence not subject to the outcome of the suit.

The city could be slapped with a $4.5 million bill if it joins VCSD and the developer wins the appeal, he says, "and we have no way of generating that amount of money. It's simply the magnitude of it."

But VCSD director Chuck Ladner says the suit could be settled on the basis of current sewage connections to the plant. Pleasanton will bring about 6,000 hookups.

Pleasanton City Council members want two separate funds set up, with each $335 connection fee generated by the city going into the city's kitty.

But VCSD directors are unanimous in claiming all connection fees, regardless of their source, as the exclusive property of the district.

ABAG general plan hikes housing limits

BERKELEY — Filling in the urban areas first and raising residential housing densities are two of the key features of the Association of Bay Area Governments' proposed revision of its general plan unveiled here yesterday.

The document is important to Bay Area development because any community wishing to qualify for federal or state grants for such facilities as sewage treatment plants must adhere to the ABAG general plan.

The new plan has not been adopted, is only in draft form and can be criticized up and down by all of the cities and counties which belong to ABAG. Developers and environmentalists among the 46 members of ABAG's Environmental Management Task Force which released the draft yesterday made it clear that they definitely will have some input about the content of the draft.

Environmentalists commented at the meeting that a headline in the Oakland Tribune yesterday morning played up the wrong side of the jobs aspect of the plan. While it's true that the environmentally - directed shake-up caused by the plan will cut 40,000 future jobs in the Bay Area, the Tribune neglected to say there will be 1 million additional jobs here by the year 2000. So the loss of 40,000 from the scenario that might have been is a relative drop in the bucket, said the environmentalists.

Bill Leonard, executive director of the Associated Building Industry of Northern California, complained that the staff's final 100 page report based its housing projections only on the Environmental Protection Agency's EO growth plans for trying to keep the air relatively clean.

Leonard thought the staff also should include projections based on the actual rate of household formations in the Bay Area. The staff will work up those figures, said San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein, who chairs the EMTF.

Jobs were a big concern, as the staff repeatedly talked about increasing densities in the more urban areas and tying them to jobs in those areas.

The big emphasis was on improving air quality by cutting the commute distances. One EMTF task force member who used to live in Los Angeles refused to believe that the average Bay Area resident has a longer commute (15 miles) than the average Angeleno (9 miles). But a representative from the Metropolitan Transportation Commission said the figures are correct, up to date, and comparable. —by Ron McNicoll

Tax relief bill seeks solons' OK

"The money to counties is earmarked for medical costs, welfare, and general assistance," Mori said. The city money is tagged for property tax rate cuts, but the cities could easily divert it to other uses by votes of the council.

Assembly speaker Leo McCarthy, (D — San Francisco) said it was a "good bill" that had "at least a 50-50 chance."

Some speculate the Senate needs at least one Republican vote to pass the bill although Senate GOP floor leader George Deukmejian of Long Beach said it wouldn't win Republican votes.

Other provisions of the bill would eliminate the business inventory tax within five years and boost the bank and corporation tax from 9 per cent to 10 1/4 per cent.

Pipeline's final plans win okay

LIVERMORE —The $38 million waste water export pipeline project will go to bid when the state approves final documents signed last night by the Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA).

The state has given preliminary approval to LAVWMA's plans, opening the way to begin construction on the 22-mile pipeline that will transport effluent to the regional "super-sewer" for final dumping into San Francisco Bay.

The board also approved a three-page letter opposing county sanction of small-scale "package" sewage plants for the Valley.

LAVWMA chairman Dale Turner will present the letter to the county planning commission Monday.

Mary Struthers is juggling her college career to fit in time to attend Clown College in Florida with the hopes of getting a contract with Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

No laughing matter

From think tank to clown college

It's no laughing matter becoming a clown these days. Mary Struthers will tell you that she worked hard for two years to qualify for the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus' Clown College.

Although Mary probably would have enjoyed hopping a freighter out of the East Pleasanton train yards, things just aren't done that way anymore, so the 19-year-old Granada High School graduate had to settle for a cross country drive in her barge VW.

The Florida campus, the only clown college in the world, accepts only 50 persons a year for its eight-week course. Mary was delighted to be chosen from over 3000 applicants.

"Clowning is something I really have a sense of accomplishment doing. These things don't come easy — I have to practice hard," she explained.

"I know it's different, and I enjoy that difference," said

Mary who completed her freshman year of college at the University of Chicago, an institution known as "the think tank."

She'll return to the academics — when she's ready. But, now it's time for clowning. "It's just the perfect time, because right now my interest is very high. College — I can always go back to it," she said.

Circus performing, incidentally, doesn't run in the family. Her dad Bill Struthers is an attorney, and her mother, Thale, said her other five children are all in college — a daughter studying to be a doctor at Columbia University, a son at Stanford who will be interning with Pete Stark in Washington this year and another leaving shortly for the London School of Economics.

Mrs. Struthers isn't at all displeased with Mary's pursuit. "We're pretty pleased. It's been quite a challenge and she's been thinking this way for a couple of years."

Mary had been studying with a clown in San Francisco, taking two classes a week when the Circus held its annual tryouts in the Bay Area.

Mary took her juggling balls and unicycle, an old suit, hat and clown-face make-up to the audition. "My skit took no more than two minutes and they were trying to rush people through."

Later that same evening, Mary got a call from Florida and the Clown College dean asked if she had the money to get to Florida and be part of the class.

Mary isn't too sure it was her performance that did the trick. She thought it was the written application she'd submitted.

"I'd had the application in my hands for two years and studied it to see if what I was doing would apply. I didn't do it overnight," she explained.

The application asked a variety of questions ranging from, "When was the last time you cried? What was the reason?" to

"Why would you make a good clown?"

To the last question, Mary replied, "People laugh at me anyway. A lot of humor comes from clumsiness and awkwardness. I have skills that are employed to make humor."

If Mary is chosen to join the Circus, about 25 a year are, she will be obligated to sign up for one year. And that is her aim, to become a "serious circus clown" for at least one year.

"It's a whole new way of life. You live the circus — it's not just another job. I know it means living in a box car with just enough room for a bed and trunk," she explained.

Mary said a beginning clown could expect about $155 a week, with top pay at $350 a week. Clown College is tuition-free and students pay only for living expenses.

A class for parents

Dr. Frank R. Siccone, founder and director of Responsibility Training, and St. Mary's College will co-sponsor a six-week series entitled "Experiencing Satisfaction as a Parent," scheduled to commence Tuesday, Sept. 20, at Fredericksen School in Dublin.

The course will be conducted six consecutive Tuesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. at Fredericksen. College credit may be received through St. Mary's College.

The course will consist of theoretical data and experimental activities designed to have parents experience a shift in their relationship with their children, from one of evaluations, judgments and limited self-expression to one of complete acceptance and open communication.

Participants will identify and communicate about their thoughts, feelings and attitudes regarding what their children need to do to "make it" with them and what they need to do to "make it" with their children.

Included in this process is observing the participants' relationship to their own parents and its effect on their relationship with their children. The focus is on having these relationships be complete, whole and satisfying.

The course is offered for parents as well as for therapists, counselors and teachers who work with parents in a counseling relationship. The final class session focuses on applications of the course experience to counseling and teaching.

Further information may be received from Linda Ferris or Jo Ann Bailey at 828-5205 (evenings) or 538-0869 (evenings).

Dr. Siccone may be reached at 441-3858.

New Valley Campus instructors meet

Instructors new to Chabot College Valley Campus are in the midst of a week-long orientation with a panel of task force chairmen explaining Valley Campus' uniqueness and thrust as well as other task force concepts and goals.

All instructors new to Chabot, as well as returning faculty members, will convene today at 8:45 a.m. for a general meeting. Main speaker will be Dr. Patricia Cross, a distinguished research scientist for the Educational Testing Service at Berkeley, who will speak on "Beyond Education for All: Toward Education for All."

Remainder of today and Friday will be devoted to workshop, seminars, and division meetings.

The new full-time instructors are:

Lawrence Aguiar, physical education; Jack Alderman, health; Richard Avelar, engineering/architecture; James Burrell, astronomy; Dennis Chowenhill, English; Carol Clough, business; Frederick Collins, data processing; Mildred Collins, English; James Coughran, data processing; Connie Ferraro, medical assisting.

Frances Gardner, health; Edward Gibson, political science; Frederic Green, sociology; Patricia Keeling-Andrich, speech; Gaila Moore, business; Jeannette McNeil, speech; Anthony Tabon, astronomy; JoAnn Revoir, physical education; Elizabeth Rippey, drama.

Beverly Sklueff, medical assisting; Straight Townsend, business; Jack Ward, art; Robert Ware, drama; Dorene Wilburn, dental assisting; Kenneth Williams, economics; Ellen Yeoman, biology.

Beginning Tuesday, Sept. 20, Chabot College Valley Campus will offer a special speech and language clinic on Tuesdays from 3:30 until 6:20 p.m. The special class is known as Speech 47D-73.

The goal is to provide special assistance on an individual and/or small group basis to students with speech, language, and hearing impediments, including English as a second language.

The instructor, Jeanne Farley-Rodgers, will implement individual therapy plans to meet the needs of each student. She is a licensed speech pathologist and a speech and language clinician with the Livermore School District.

She completed her graduate work at San Jose State and holds a Certificate of Clinical Competence from the American Speech and Hearing Association. The clinic is open to anyone 18 years of age or older, who can enroll in Speech 47C-93.

Students may register the first week of classes Sept. 19-24 in Building 100 at Chabot College Valley Campus. Further information is available by telephoning 455-5300. Students will receive one unit of credit for each quarter of therapy.

Survival class taught

For the sixth year the Livermore Adult Evening High School is offering the course, "Safety and Survival," as part of the LVJUSD adult evening education program. This is the first year cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) will be included in the course.

The course leads to American Red Cross certification in its "Advanced First Aid and Emergency Care" curriculum and "CPR." Topics covered include bleeding control, wound care, emergency childbirth and heart and respiratory emergencies.

The course begins tonight from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. and will continue each week in the fall. Enrollment will be open until Sept. 22 at the Adult Education office, 3044 East Ave.

VFW post will meet Friday

Charles Auer V.F.W. Post and Auxiliary will hold its business meeting Friday, Sept. 16 at the Veterans Memorial Building in Pleasanton at 8 p.m.

Scout Troop 546 and Cub Pack 546 and Cadet Girl Scout troop and families are invited to participate in a picnic at the Veterans Hospital grounds in Livermore, at the entrance, on Saturday, Sept. 17 from noon to evening.

Livermore Eagles gather

Livermore Eagles Auxiliary will have its regular meeting Thursday, Sept. 22 in the Eagles Hall, 527 N. Livermore Ave., at 8 p.m. Anyone interested in holding an office in the Auxiliary can contact President Kay Olek at 447-8830.

A look at local writer's workshop

Saul Bellow and Truman Capote were missing, but more than 40 Valley residents learned a lot about writing recently as the grounds of the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District headquarters became a West Coast Yaddo for two days.

Yaddo is a big and beautiful estate in New York where Bellow, Capote and many other authors have stayed as long as a year to let their future books cook inside themselves. There is good company and talk about literary style and ideas.

The same thing, on a smaller scale, happened with the local group under the state trees and inside the air conditioned rooms of the Trevano Road site that in the 1930's served Coast Manufacturing as its headquarters. The Alameda County Neighborhood Arts Council supplied four writers — three poets and a novelist — to give us a little inspiration.

The teachers helped us by giving writing exercises to push us past writing blocks and add grace to our styles.

For example, there was the automatic writing exercise. Our instructions were to never stop, never think for 15 minutes. As I wrote furiously, I noticed the words quit coming to my head. I looked down at the paper and saw my hand putting words on the paper. The emotion was linked directly to the pen. Then words ended and I started drawing the Paul Klee-like lines that comprise my pen and ink drawing style. I was regressing to an artistic form that preceeded words.

In another interesting experiment, I wrote about a recent experience and confined the writing to the present tense. For example, "I am sitting down at the picnic table, I am turning to the woman next to me, I am wondering what she thinks of me." The result was prose with a dreamlike quality which included many details I might have omitted if I sat there and thought about "what fits here?" With all the details on paper, I was then free to select what would tell the story best.

My favorite session was the feedback period. We assembled in groups of three and followed guidelines from our novelist-teacher, Marcy Alancraig. The best rules were "Don't be negative" and "Ask your critics for feedback about specific elements in your writing." I learned from Alancraig that I have the material for a novel if I can get into my feelings more about past events in my life. I have six or eight essays about growing up in the 1950's, but my idea for a book of essays bogged down three years ago because I felt unsure of what to do next with it. I was surprised that my essays would translate into a novel, but the other people in my trio pointed out novel-like judgements, adjectives, and observations and they made a believer out of me.

Also by way of followup, many people on Sunday signed a sheet indicating they are interested in more meetings, even without the instructors, so perhaps we'll have a Valley writer's group which will meet on its own from time to time. If any writers out there are interested in that, call me here at The Times.

Near the end of the conference, Michael Porter, one of our instructors, gave me the following poem by conference participant Bobbie Leiser. She lives in Livermore and had a poem published in the recent number of Chabot College's literary magazine. As you will see from the last line of the poem, there is quite a local angle.

"A Syllabic Groaner"
 "I love my heart that pumps the blood,
 I love my veins that map the route,
 I love my lungs that breathe the air,
 I love my lips that smile and pout.
 I love my hands that reach and feel,
 I love my feet that touch the floor,
 I love all these, I must admit,
 But...I love my Livermore."

Russell to sing

Singer Andy Russell, who has gathered a following of fans both in the United States and Latin America, will be the star attraction at the Children's Hospital Fir Branch benefit dinner-dance, to be held Saturday, Sept. 17 from 7 p.m. to midnight at the Castlewood County Club in Pleasanton.

Russell, a bilingual singer, has had such hits as "Besame Mucho" and "Magic is the Moonlight" among his gold records.

Appearing with Russell will be Arthur Duncan, a dancing regular with the "Lawrence Welk Show" on television. He has appeared nationally with Bob Hope, Jerry Lewis and Jimmy Durante.

Tickets for the event, $30 per couple, may be obtained by calling Doris Lucy at 339-9335 or Betty Humphreys at 376-5754.

Cancellation

A Chabot College Community Service course for seniors, "Movement in Music," has been cancelled. It was to have been presented on Thursday mornings, but a conflict in times forced the cancellation.

AAUW plans fall brunch

Women interested in learning about membership in the Livermore-Pleasanton branch of the American Association of University Women are invited to the branch's fall membership meeting and brunch, Saturday, Sept. 17 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the home of Cindy Duwe, 543 S. L Street, Livermore.

Study groups and special interest sections within the organization will set up displays featuring activities. "Women as Agents of Change," "Redefining the Goals of Education" and "The Politics of Food" are some of the programs.

The AAUW, which has 200 local members, also plans various local activities for the public. President of the organization is Charlotte Gleason, Paula Alm first vice-president and Jan Foster, second vice-president. For more information on the group, which is open to women with a bachelor's degree or higher from an accredited college or university, call 846-8785.

Look what's growing in your own backyard: Willows

If you haven't been out to WILLOWS lately, you're in for a very pleasant surprise. While WILLOWS is still growing, unique specialty stores, uncommon shops, and unusual places to eat are blossoming forth like the summer flowers we've planted everywhere.

But WILLOWS is more than the newest place in Concord to shop. You'll find lots to do, as well as lots of lovely ways to do nothing at all. You can have a picnic lunch by our fountain. Invite your friends to "Meet me at the Gazebo" — there's usually free entertainment — then browse the new stores off the shaded mall. Stay over for dinner at a fine restaurant and take in the evening's performance at the Willows Theater. Or just admire the architecture and design . . . the scenery and greenery.

Come watch WILLOWS growing in your own backyard. You'll like what we're doing here.

Willows is open Monday through Friday from 10 AM to 9 PM. On Saturdays, from 10 AM to 6 PM. On Sundays, 12 noon to 5 PM. Convenient parking for 1200 cars.

What's a nice girl like you doing in a garage?

The mechanic bends deep into the car engine, fixing wires, shaking and adjusting parts. After smearing grease off on overalls which are already painted black, she looks up, wipes her forehead and smiles: "I should have had my hair done today."

It's becoming a reality in auto parts stores and repair shops across the country — the legend of Wanda, or Carol, or Linda, the auto mechanic.

Valley women are starting to take up the trade, a non-traditional one where they can work with their hands, get good pay, find ample job opportunities and best of all, not have to type.

"I didn't want to be a secretary," said 19-year-old Linda Payne, of Livermore, while looking up from the interior of a late-model sedan. "I needed a job and I really enjoy this."

Cari Wood, a Dublin mother of four, adjusted the sleeves of her braid-trimmed jumpsuit and said, "Once I got my hands into this, it just started coming together for me. My sons are proud of me, too. They say that the other mothers won't even get their hands dirty."

"Women seem to have more enthusiasm than men in this kind of work," said Bob Elliot, general mechanics instructor at the Pacific Technical Institute (PTI) San Jose automotive trade school. "They've got a larger goal, and it seems to mean more to them."

The Institute, a private trade school, is trying to encourage more women to join the ranks of the female mechanic. All of the women who are enrolled at PTI are from Southern Alameda County — many are from Livermore, Dublin and Pleasanton.

And, with the help And, says coordinator Stephanie Caldwell, many of the women are getting the chance, for the first time, to earn a good wage.

"Most of the women here have worked at the lowest paying jobs, or were on welfare," Caldwell said. "They want to make it on their own, and this is an opportunity that's hard to come by otherwise."

Low-income and women over 18 enroll in the program without charge, and they are paid a monthly stipend to attend the program, which runs Monday through Friday for six hours each day.

'Women seem to have more enthusiasm than men in this kind of work. It means more to them.'

And they've got to be determined enough, she added, to face both the courses and male attitudes. "Some of the guys in the classes say 'Why don't you just stay at home, get married and let the men take care of you?'" Caldwell said. "Men are really skeptical about us," said Carol Sherman, a mechanics student from Fremont. "I just get really cuddly, and tell them to go away."

"The guys always joke you," reported Lari Drendell of Fremont. "They'll say, 'What's a little thing like you doing working on a car?' You just have to laugh along with it, and earn their respect."

Instructors at the Institute seem to have developed their share of respect for the women, most of whom are much smaller than their male counterparts.

"They have a few problems with weights and lifting things," maintained Bob Elliot, "but most of the girls have done real well."

"I questioned 'em to see if they like getting their hands in dirt and grease," said John Downing, head PTI instructor with just a hint of a smile. "And sometimes I have to teach them how to figure out which end of the screwdriver is the handle."

Auto mechanics, said John, requires someone who "is strong enough to do the work, and can develop guts and confidence." Some of the women, he added, are "a little shy at first," and have to learn to speak their mind. "It takes a considerable amount of brainwork, as well as mechanical aptitude."

"It's tough sometimes," acknowledged Kathy Lopez of Hayward, "but I wanted a challenge. My boyfriend thought that I was pulling his leg when I said I was going in the program. Now, sometimes when I come home, he'll say 'You smell like oil and grease.' He really thinks it's weird that our roles have changed. My mom used to say that to my dad!"

Flora Daquiao, another petite mechanic who was dressed in a sharp denim coat, said, "I really love it. My family and friends knew I wanted to get into this program. Now I want to do more."

Perhaps the most unusual student at PTI was Cari Wood, a Dublin mother of four who attacked the greasy innards of a car while she talked about her aspirations. "I want to own my own business someday and teach it to my sons," she said, "but that comes later." Cari adds, "There's nothing I've tried that I haven't accomplished. It's like I already knew this — I just needed someone to sit down and teach me."

Jobs, it seems, are not too hard to find for mechanics these days at least according to the PTI people.

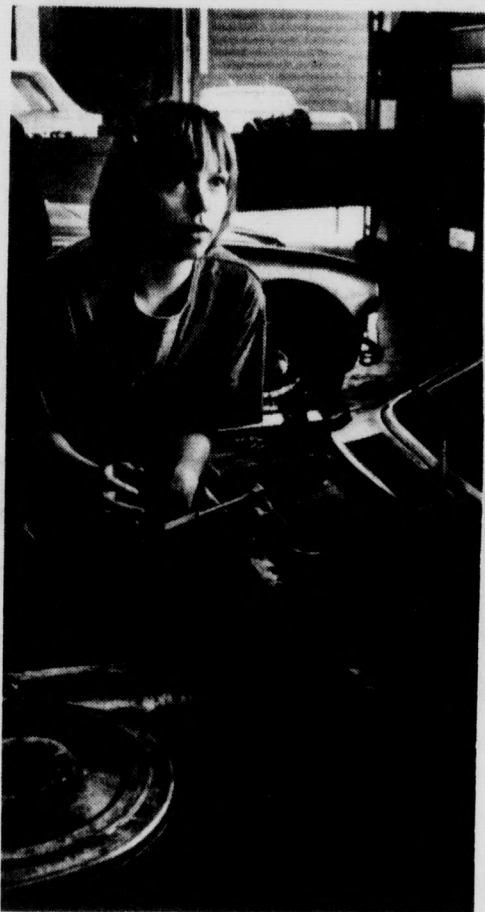

Beginning mechanics who have just graduated can earn from $3.50 an hour to a more experienced worker's wage of $6, $7 and more hourly at auto shops, according to John Downing.

Prior to hitting the job market, the women are prepared for state examinations, and certification, Caldwell explained. Then, she says, PTI helps locate jobs for the women in shops ranging from Montgomery Ward's to smaller, local businesses.

The mechanic looks up from the car engine, where she's fooling with an oscilloscope and testing God-knows-what. After a few final checks, one last adjustment and a smile, she stops.

"Hmmm... a job well-done," she said. Harriet the mechanic has struck again.

Lari Drendell, one of the growing ranks of women auto mechanics, flashes a relieved grin after a particularly tough job.

A lighter moment for auto class members Cari Wood of Dublin, Flora Daquiao and Kathy Lopez.

Dublin mother of four

An ex-Bunny takes up the wrench

Cari Wood, a curly-haired, blue-eyed mother of four, has come a long way, baby.

These days, she wears the denim jumpsuit of an auto mechanic while training for a new profession.

But that's a lot different from the outfit she used to wear on the job — as a Playboy Bunny in the prestigious San Francisco nightclub.

"I loved that job," Cari says. "I loved the glamour, the beauty, the pampering we got." But, she adds, the Playboy Bunny has a lot of responsibility and a lot of training — to undertake before she puts on her tail.

Cari, 34, now has four sons, the oldest of which is 14. And, she says proudly, she's raised them mostly alone.

"If I find anyone who will fit in with me, then that's fine," says Cari, "but I'm not going to wait for Prince Charming."

After getting divorced, she "took a breath, then went to work" to support her sons by herself.

"I'm settled now," she states. "And I enjoy my kids."

But she still looks back — with a bit of fondness — on the good ol' days, when the kids were small and she was paying for their food and clothing by working as a Playboy Bunny.

Cari says she decided to interview for the position when a girlfriend did. She wound up competing with 500 other women for fewer than 15 positions available. The interview wasn't too tough, she says, but weeks of training that came afterwards were, and included details of how to dress, act and be made-up.

There was, she says, a heavy emphasis on "femininity."

After being hired, the Bunny has to keep up her image, Cari added. "There's a Bunny Mother — she would listen to all of our problems, and she lays down the law" for the club waitresses, Cari says. And the laws, it seems, are plentiful.

"We couldn't date customers or other employees," she relates. "And you weren't allowed to sit down in costume," a costume which Cari describes as being "custom-tailored" with lots of tight stays "to give you good posture."

When serving drinks, Cari adds, one had to remember to perform the famous "Bunny Dip."

There were some drawbacks to the glamorous life, though. "We had to wear three-inch heels," Cari says. "And we couldn't accept tips" unless the customer filled out a special charge form to do it. "I finally couldn't handle driving all the way in, paying for parking and working the late hours," Cari says.

So, after a stint at go-go dancing, and then managing a topless night club in Oakland's Jack London Square, Cari while raising her sons — finally decided on auto mechanics.

"I could always fix my own appliances," she recalls. "Things fit together for me, and they work. I've done all the normal household chores around here."

So, she took the aptitude test to get into Pacific Technical Institute — and passed "with the highest score they've ever received," Cari says with a smile.

Eventually, she says, she'd like to work with a large company, perhaps maintaining trucks, or own her own business. "I want to be able to put my sons through college," she says. "I want to give them the opportunity to do things, to see things."

There's a slogan on her kitchen wall that perhaps says it better: "When life hands you lemons, make lemonade."

Cari Wood, a Dublin mother of four — and an ex-Playboy Bunny — tackles her new work in auto mechanics.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm a 40-year-old widow and lately I've been having a lot of minor accidents. My doctor advised me to take a few glasses of wine before going to bed so I could relax and sleep. He thinks my accidents might be the result of insomnia. The wine helps me to sleep and I haven't had any mishaps since this new treatment, but now I have headaches when I wake up. My neighbor says these are just old-fashioned hangovers. If I stop my nightcaps, I'm afraid I'll have accidents again. — D.Y.

DEAR D.Y.: There are some studies that indicate the accident-prone person becomes even more susceptible through boredom, loneliness and frustration. It might help if you tried to set goals for yourself, perhaps looking into some subject that's always interested you. I also suggest that you try to analyze

DEAR DR. LAMB — The other day I attended a meeting with a group of women. The speaker spoke about sugar and how bad it is for the body. She said we could avoid many diseases by avoiding sugar. She showed us how sugar was added to so many items on the market. Her family eats raw vegetables or dried fruit for snacks. They only have milk with dry bran cereal for breakfast. The rest of the day no one gets milk to drink. For lunch they have cheese and natural peanut butter and whole wheat bread.

For dinner they have lean meat, cooked and raw vegetables and a piece of cheese with raw fruit for dessert. We wonder if a young family with children would get enough calcium when consuming so little milk.

She showed us how a half teaspoon of brown sugar would weaken the arm for weeks. A person stood up with one arm stretched out shoulder height and she tried to press it down, but the arm stayed in place. Then she gave the person the sugar to eat and tried the same again. The person could not keep the arm stretched out.

DEAR READER — Watch out! You listened to show biz, not health information. She may be a well meaning individual but she is a bit off the beam about scientific facts.

That arm trick was plain fakery. It is in the realm of suggestive responses or hypnotism. One half teaspoon of sugar, brown or white, is not going to weaken a person's arm. Moreover it would take a minimum of 30 minutes for it to be dissolved and emptied by the stomach into the small intestine and finally absorbed into the blood stream. The brown sugar had nothing at all to do with the woman's arm response.

I can do the same thing without giving a person anything and so can anyone else who knows anything about the power of suggestion and hypnotism. It is just a parlor trick.

Sugar is glucose and fructose. You find both in fruit. That dried fruit the woman's family eats contains the same sugars found in table sugar. The body doesn't know if the sugar came from the fruit or the sugar bowl. The big difference is that table sugar doesn't have any bulk or vitamins or minerals. After all, sugar comes from beets and cane.

The starch in vegetables and fruit is broken down to glucose in the small intestine before it is absorbed and it is the same glucose you get from table sugar. Milk sugar (lactose) contains glucose and galactose. The glucose is the same wherever it comes from. Fructose and galactose is converted to glucose in the body so it all comes out as the same basic food in the long run regardless of how it is packaged.

Sugar can be harmful if it means eating too many calories or using it in place of foods that provide important vitamins, minerals and bulk or in those individuals who seem to have yoyo blood sugar responses to eating sugar, but the problem is drastically overdone. Sweets between meals can cause dental problems (so can other foods between meals).

why you have these accidents and pinpoint the occasions. Try to determine if a specific worry or anxiety precedes the accident.

I suggest you limit the wine to one glass before bedtime. This shouldn't produce a hangover. However, a sleep researcher found that while liquor makes a person sleepy, it also produces a restless sleep that may contribute to the morning-after effect.

With insomnia and your accident-proneness, I believe you should look for the real reasons. It's a psychological problem and alcohol will not be of much help. If you can't solve these problems on your own, try professional help.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Since my friend's boyfriend left her four months ago, she's been depressed and in a kind of mourning. She has suddenly gained tremendous weight and I couldn't understand why until I spent a weekend with her. She does practically nothing but eat and watch TV. She doesn't want to meet anyone else and she's decided she hates all men. She used to have a lovely figure. Her mother says she did this another time, before I knew her. Don't you think this is a little sick? — C.P.

DEAR C.P.: Compulsive overeating often occurs at a time of tension, at some especially critical period in a person's life.

Instead of dealing with her problem and her feeling of loneliness, your friend is trying to deny her frustration and rage by temporarily comforting herself with large quantities of food. This is her security blanket, but it is a very dangerous one, for as long as she buries her problems, she'll never be able to overcome them. Food isn't a wholesome substitute for human contact.

It isn't abnormal to experience loneliness or even depression but if we know how to handle them we can learn from these emotions. The healthy way to cope with such problems is to confide in a friend or find something constructive and creative to do. Contact with others is essential at such times.

Encourage your friend to express her feelings. Help her to rebuild her self-esteem.

Financial prospects are very encouraging for you this coming year. Oddly enough, old situations may yield more fruit than new ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Material conditions are very beneficial to you today, but this may not be readily apparent. Your gains will come through a source you didn't expect.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll do very well with new projects at this time, but don't feel traditional methods won't apply just because the applications are new.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) To achieve your goals today, put a governor on your drives. Moderation is the key to moving ahead. Make haste slowly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep in touch with those important to your material welfare, even though they may be distant. Don't make it "out of sight, out of mind."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's a good day to call in markers where your work or career is concerned. If you feel you've earned a raise, buttonhole the boss.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be philosophical today. Take the long-range view if you have problems. Things usually have a way of working out. They will for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Joint ventures are a particularly promising area for you today. If you're invited to participate in an endeavor, do give it a long, hard look.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's not good to show partiality, but today you have to. If so, favor persons with whom you have long and lasting attachments.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may be contemplating refurbishing your environment today. You'd be wise to choose appointments of high quality.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You know the right things to say today, and people instinctively know your word is like blue chip stocks. If you say it, you'll do it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be alert today that something you buy may increase in value far beyond what the seller realizes. The profit could be exciting.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In serious situations today, don't let your humor desert you. It's OK to be firm, but make an attempt to maintain your perspective.

In basic bridge responders to Blackwood are in the position of Tennyson's light brigade. "Their's not to reason why, their's but to do or die." They don't have to die, but they do have to respond as asked.

In advanced bidding there are several situations where responder will take independent action.

Today's hand illustrates the simplest one. South follows up his Blackwood four notrump with five notrump to ask for kings. This follow up also informs partner that they have all the aces. There is no reason to invite seven when you know there is an ace against you.

North dutifully shows his two kings and South merely goes to six spades.

At this point North revalues his hand. South was clearly thinking of seven when he bid five notrump. Could there be a trump loser? How about another loser?

South could not know that North held four sure and five very probable club tricks so North bids the grand slam which makes easily in spite of the bad club break.

Training begins next week for all persons interested in joining the docent staff of the East Bay Regional Park District. Docents such as Don Frazer of Boy Scout Troop 911 in Pleasanton serve as guides and teachers to visitors to the district park-lands. Training for environmental education docents begins Tuesday, Sept. 20 and is scheduled to run once a week from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. through Jan. 10 at Sunol Regional Wilderness. For further information phone Sunol at 862-2244.

Park docents sought for Sunol

Volunteer docents are sought by the East Bay Regional Park District to serve as environmental educators in the district's 3,700 Sunol Regional Wilderness.

"No experience is necessary," said Alice Cantelow, the coordinator of the 1977 docent training program.

Docent training begins next Tuesday, Sept. 20 from 9:30 a.m. to about 2:30 p.m. and is scheduled to run each week through Jan. 10. Most sessions will be held at the Old Green Barn in the Sunol Regional Wilderness.

Successful trainees will join the district's 35-member Docent Council of Sunol which works with school classes and interested individuals on nature walks and other programs.

The park district fee of $10 covers materials including park guidebooks and naturalists' texts. Interested people can register by calling Sunol at 862-2244 or by attending the first session. The final registration day is the second session, Sept. 27.

Schools name new executive

Karen Lapin, 34, with considerable experience in guidance counseling and as Special Education coordinator with New York City schools, begins duties today as Director of Pupil Personnel Services with the Amador and Pleasanton school districts.

Mrs. Lapin's appointment was confirmed following an executive session of the Amador school board Tuesday night.

She succeeds Gloria Jones, who was named to the new position of assistant principal with Amador Adult Education.

Mrs. Lapin's 1976-77 assignment was as supervisor for Special Education classes for the emotionally handicapped in New York City. The year previous, she served as coordinator of Title VI funding, Division of Special Education and Pupil Personnel Services, Bureau of Socially Maladjusted and Emotionally Disturbed, in New York City.

From 1973 to 1975, Mrs. Lapin was a guidance counselor and coordinator of Special Education classes for educationally handicapped in Gotham.

She also served as a guidance counselor in K-6 schools in The Bronx, New York, from 1969-71 and 1972-73, and with K-6 schools in the South Kings-ton School Department at Wakefield, Rhode Island, in 1971-72. Mrs. Lapin has also taught Special Education classes and at the fourth and fifth grade levels.

In 1968-69 she was a youth employment counselor for ages 16-21 with the Youth Opportunity Center in New York City, and from 1966 to 1968 a teacher in Peekskill, N.Y.

A graduate of Fordham University, she holds a professional diploma in Special Education, a Masters in guidance and counseling, and a BS in elementary education.

Mrs. Lapin will work from offices at the District Media Center at Pleasanton School.

The board Tuesday night also received the resignation of Alan Wadsworth, assigned to Foothill High School and formerly as assistant principal at Dublin High, who has accepted a position with the American Sign and Indicator Corporation.

Board members also learned that the new score board for Foothill's football field may be in place for the Sept. 23 game with Monte Vista of Cupertino. The field will be dedicated at the Amador game Friday, Oct. 7.

Trustees also voted for Pete Snyder of the Murray district, Betty Carrel of Livermore and Arthur Van Etten of Chabot for the California School Boards Association delegate assembly.

Canal fight

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A key vote on Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s $4.2 billion plan to build the Peripheral Canal and other water projects was postponed Wednesday until the eve of the legislature's adjournment.

"If this legislation passes we will have observed a miracle," said Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, as he put off the committee vote until tonight.

The plan, which has passed the Assembly, needs seven votes on the 13-member Finance Committee before it can move to the Senate floor for a final verdict Thursday, expected to be the final day of the current session.

LARPD rec plan altered

Changes in the fall schedule of classes and activities offered by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District have been announced in advance of tonight's registration.

All trampoline classes have been cancelled until the winter for lack of qualified instructors.

A beginner cake decorating class will be offered Monday evenings from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the recreation center starting Oct. 17 through Dec. 15. The class fee is $8.50.

Registration for the second session of tennis lessons will start tonight and continue Saturday morning, Sept. 17, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. No special registration will be held Oct. 19.

Slim-trim-swim classes will be held at the May Nissen swim center from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. not 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. as mentioned in the brochure.

On Sports

My friend Don Zupan can never figure us out. Don's the associate sports editor of the Contra Costa Times, or deeper still, The Mothership Connection, the place where the paper you are now reading is composed and printed. As a matter of expedience, our sports staff has a desk in the CCT's Walnut Creek office.

Bill Glazier

We swap stories, both publishable and unpublishable. We take curious peaks at one another's sports section. Zupan and his colleagues at the CCT are amazed when the Times expends 22 column inches on a high school tennis wrap-up or covers a Livermore Area Recreation and Park District softball play-off in person.

Yesterday, Tim Hunt of the Tri-Valley Herald called Don and asked him for some information on the Alhambra High School football team the Foothill Falcons will meet Friday night. Zupan gave Hunt a few names.

You did what?, three members of our staff screamed in unison. Ludicrous. Grown persons wailing because an affiliated sports writer tossed a couple of facts about an out-of-the-area football team at a competitor.

The East Bay Athletic League is overrun with newspapers. No less than five are published in the Alamo to Livermore corridor. They come out one, three, five, and seven days per week. Five times a week the Times competes with the Herald for morning readership.

Only in two places in the entire state does a morning rivalry exist between newspapers. I doubt anywhere else in the Bay Area, if not the state, do four papers vie for coverage of eight high schools.

And, in this case, competition has proved far from healthy.

The latest episode involves the Tri-Valley News, the Herald's San Ramon - Danville - Alamo offshoot, and the Valley Pioneer, another of the Times' sister papers.

The Pioneer, in its one issue of the week, reported that Monte Vista tennis coach Floyd Baker had resigned, citing an inadequate number of courts and an unfavorable change in his teaching schedule.

Before the News could run the story, Baker abruptly changed his mind — and credited the Pioneer story for bringing some force to bear on Monte Vista principal Jerry Grundhoffer — and the News reported that Baker had not resigned — with pointed references to the Pioneer story.

Its primary source was Grundhoffer. Baker said of the News article, "Gee, that's terrible." Pioneer sports editor Bill Glazier was more adamant, using phrases like, "fishwrapper publication looking sideways at the truth," "two-bit attempt at reporting," "unprofessional tactics," in reference to the News.

"It's nice to know a local throw-away is scraping the bottom of the barrel while its upbeat competitor is flourishing with news," Glazier began his Wednesday column. I have little doubt the accused News-man, Jack Graham, will reply in kind.

It took all the pressure my superiors could muster to keep me from leveling Hunt in print after he accused me of "focusing on the sidelines" earlier this year, the very crime some EBAL coaches accused him of after an incident two years ago.

The situation stinks. That the resignation of a high school tennis coach, a loss of control by a high school basketball coach or a misunderstanding of jeers should become "scoops" or bones of contention in column space is idiotic.

Boys will be boys and writers toiling for suburban papers are a rarity if they are not in the earlier portions of their careers. As good an opportunity as any writing job is in today's glutted journalism market, breathes their a reporter with a soul so dead that he/she hasn't said, "I gotta get outa here and onto a Metro?"

I don't pretend that the news we cover is unimportant to those who create it, but any sports writer who spends a great percentage of his/her time grinding through reams of youth soccer score-sheets — the single least newsworthy item, along with little league baseball, ever to appear in print

Miller tabbed prep-of-week

Chris Miller had a banner day against Benecia High last Saturday and as a result the California High School fullback was named Contra Costa County Fleeto Prep of the Week today.

Miller, a 5-11, 175 pound senior carried the ball 11 times and gained 145 yards in the Grizzlies' 24-6 victory. He also scored three times on runs of 10, 10, 70 and eight yards. He played about two-thirds of the contest and played a brilliant all-around game.

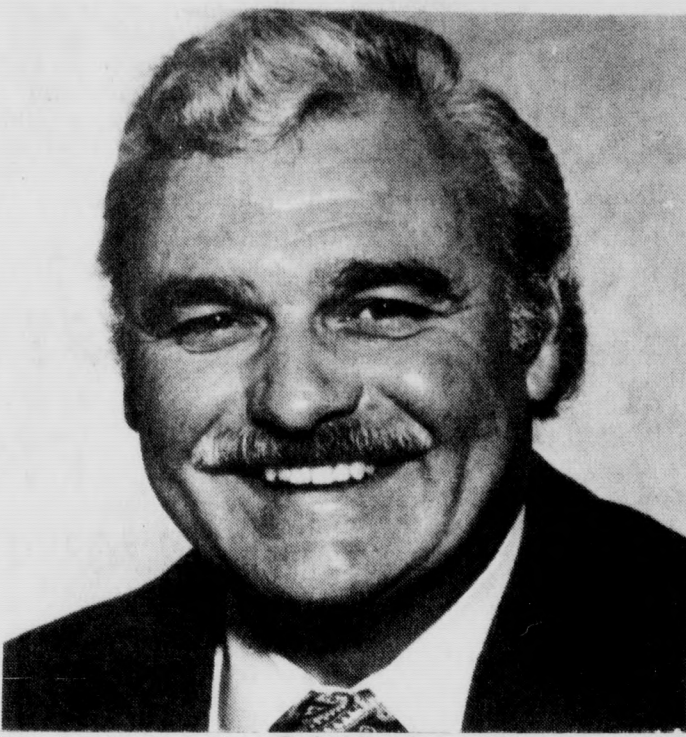

David Reed of Mr. Eden of the Hayward Area Athletic League won the Alameda County Prep of the Week award for his performance against Kennedy of Fremont.

Reed, a 5-10, 165 pound running back, carried the ball 20 times for 226 yards, including two touchdowns. One for 85 yards and the other for 19 yards.

Mt. Eden won the contest easily, 27-12. Reed is also a track star. He won the North Coast Section AA 440-yard dash championship last spring with a 49.5 clocking.

Steve Balma of Rioridan High School won the San Francisco County award in the only other selection. He gained 58 yards rushing and made the key block in Rioridan's touchdown run as the Crusaders edged Novato, 7-6.

Doesn't fear Oakland Himsl eyes 'Quake sale'

Bob Himsl

Pleasanton's Bob Himsl is on the verge of owning a major part of the San Jose Earthquakes.

Himsl and four other men are planning to buy the franchise from current owner Milan Man-daric, who is certain to announce today his purchase of the new Oakland franchise of the North American Soccer League, formerly the Connecticut Bicentennials.

Himsl, Tony Kovac,

Bill Glennon, Steve Baxley and Don Lucas are expected to take over the San Jose franchise.

"We're working on it," Himsl commented yesterday. "But nothing is definite yet."

The financial end of the deal is the only obstacle left, according to Himsl.

"It will cost plenty," Himsl said. "We're still looking into the total costs of the operation."

Himsl, already a minority stockholder in the Earthquakes, is confident the San Jose club will continue to enjoy success.

"We've always drawn well from the San Jose area and from Livermore and Pleasanton too," he said. "We've always wanted to stay in San Jose."

Himsl should have a bigger piece of the pie than before but Kovac will probably be the principal owner.

Kovac was reached at his Tonko Corporation headquarters in Campbell yesterday but implied the deal was far from settled.

"A final decision probably won't be reached until Monday," he stated. "It's still pretty much undecided."

"Also, the percentages of ownership haven't been decided yet."

Himsl, owner of Bob Himsl Volkswagen in San Jose, says that Spartan Stadium, home of the Earthquakes is being expanded for the 1978 season.

"We should be able to hold about 22,000 people this coming season," he said. "By the 1979 season we hope to be able to hold around 30,000 people in the stands."

Spartan Stadium currently holds around 17,800-18,000 seats, smaller than most of the other NASL stadiums.

But the key to the new ownership is getting the money together. "I'll be spending a lot of time with my banker today," Himsl remarked.

"So right now I can't say anything has been really determined."

Mandaric has been the Earthquakes' president since the team was started in 1974.

The Quakes' first season saw San Jose make the playoffs. They also led the league in attendance, averaging 16,576 fans. Paul Child and Mark Demling sparked the Earthquakes that season.

San Jose captured the 1975 NASL indoor championship but suffered injuries during the outdoor season and finished last in the division with an 8-14 record.

The Earthquakes won the Southern Division crown in 1976, winning nine of 11 games in the stretch.

However, Minnesota eliminated the Earthquakes from the playoffs with a 3-1 decision.

This past season San Jose won its last four matches to earn a play-off spot but were defeated by the Los Angeles Aztecs 2-1 in overtime.

The Earthquakes were hampered by several injuries throughout the 1977 season and had trouble getting a consistent offense going.

They had one of the lowest offensive outputs in the NASL but managed to make the playoffs on the stellar play of goaltender Mike Hewitt and some outstanding defense. They concluded the regular season with a stirring come-from-behind 4-3 victory over Southern Division champion Dallas at Spartan Stadium and set a league records for stadium sellouts in a single season.

Cal fans savor win

California High fans cheered long and loud for their team Saturday when the Grizzlies inaugurated their new field with a 28-6 victory over Benicia.

It wasn't the World Champion Oakland Raiders on the field. A major college was nowhere in sight, either.

But from the reaction California High School received after winning its first football game in two years Saturday afternoon you would have thought you were in one of two spots Pasadena for the Rose Bowl or New Orleans for the Super Bowl.

"This is great," said an enthusiastic Ed Laczynski of San Ramon as he watched the Grizzlies unthrottle Benicia, 28-6 before the first home crowd in the school's five-year history.

"This is a net result of a lot of blood, sweat and tears," the avid rooter continued. "It took us a long time to get this field. It feels good to finally watch a game on our home field."

The scoreboard, which arrived late last week, was standing in place but not working. It was hardly missed. Seeing a playing surface on the school's grounds for the first time was enough to occupy thoughts during the lazy afternoon. The scoreboard promises to be in working order for the Grizzlies' East Bay Athletic League home opener with Livermore on Oct. 1.

"It's neat," exclaimed Shirley Paynter of the spanking new facility. "This school has super fans, spirit, and wins. Now that we've got it, the team is going all the way."

Todd Pelley, another fan enjoying the game under sun-splashed skies, doesn't plan to miss a Grizzly contest all season. He's witnessed loads of so-called Cal home games in the past, traveling to Los Banos, Menlo Park, Livermore, Pleasanton, Danville and is finally relieved to know future contests will be within walking distance.

"We've waited a long time for this," he understated. "It's really fantastic to be playing on our own field. I think you're going to see a much better response from the students and the parents."

And following in the Shirley Paynter mold, Pelley declared "We're going all the way."

The good words were contagious as the estimated 500 vocal Grizzly rooters roared for their reborn club. "It's so great to see a winning team," noted Victor Hampton, believing Cal might be a real contender in the EBAL this year. "It's been a long time coming."

Bret Cary, who graduated last June, sat in attendance along with several alumni friends. While his brother, Chuck, was showing off his talents on the gridiron Bret reminisced of seemingly traveling all over the continent to play a home game last year.

The field wasn't in ideal shape, unrooted and badly bruised from cleat marks, but it was home. Bret never knew what that meant in the past.

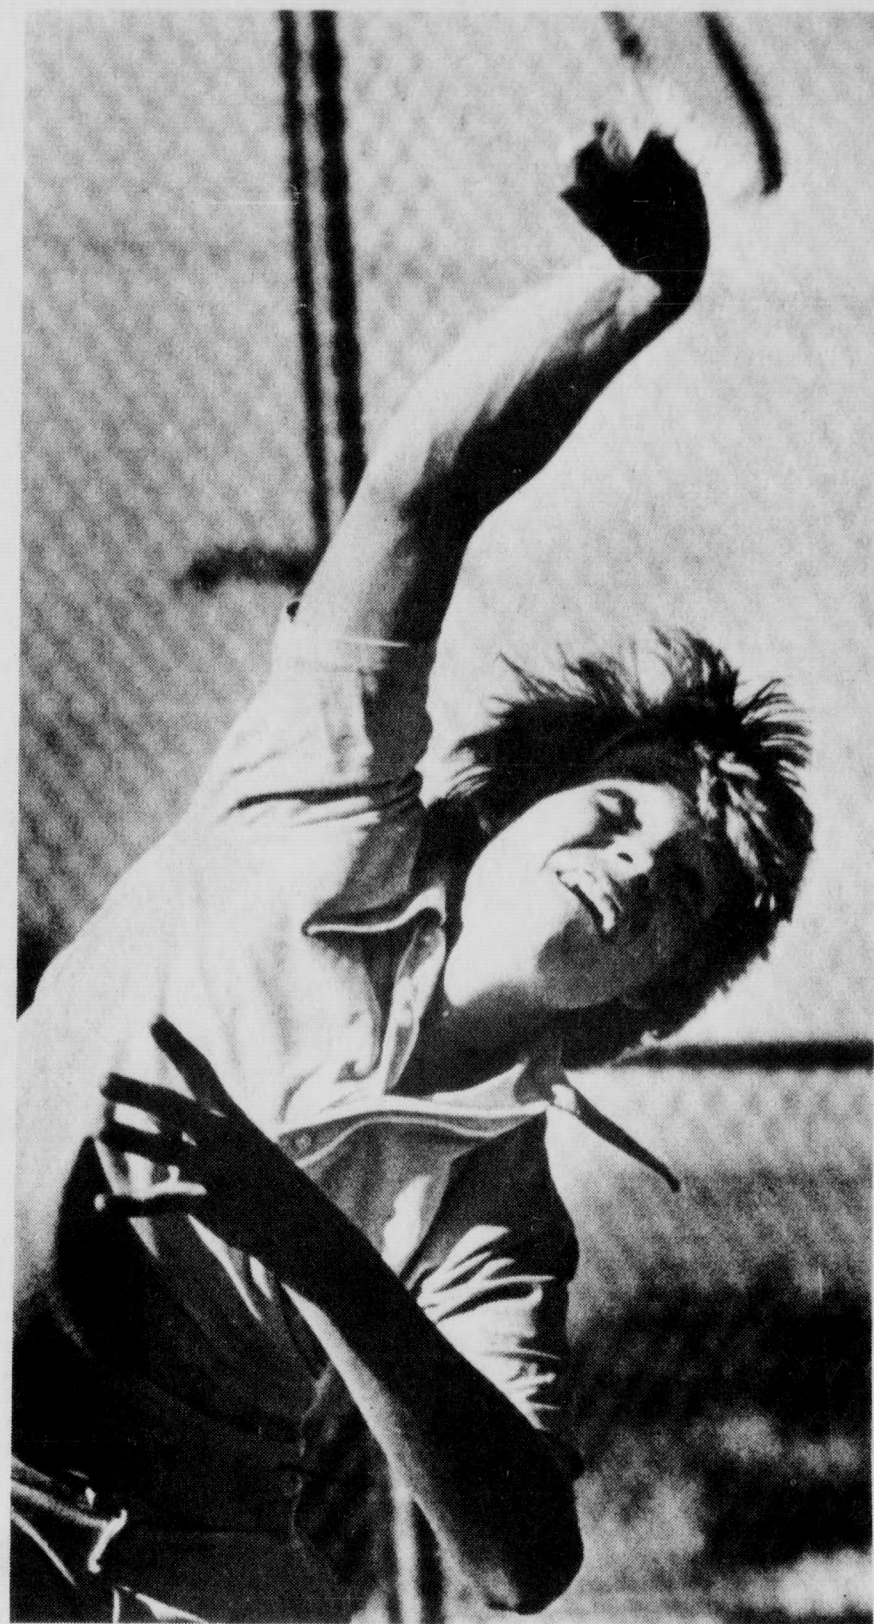

"It was hard playing on the road all the time," tMe Grizzly graduate admitted. "We were the underdog everywMere we went. It really helps out your morale when you've got your own place to play."

Mona Clark, who may have turned somersaults in the bleachers had she been given the space, was ecstatic over the Grizzlies' home debut.

"I've been dreaming about this day since the school opened," said the longtime Cal rooter. "This first game is great to see. It's nice to be winning, too."

And that's also big news. The Grizzlies would like to get used to that too.

A calculated swat

Livermore High number one singles player Steve Williford takes a healthy swing during a practice match with Antioch High yesterday at the Cowboy courts. The Cowboys opened up the East Bay Athletic League season Tuesday with a resounding 7-0 win over Granada and will look for the same success today in a battle with San Ramon as EBAL tennis action resumes with four matches scheduled. The 'Pokes and Wolves, behind Monte Vista, are two of the stronger teams in the league, the Wolves coming off a 7-0 blitz of Foothill. Other action sees Foothill at Dublin (1-0), Monte Vista at Granada and Amador (0-1) at California (0-1).

Bruins find QB

LOS ANGELES — UCLA lost a football game and two key players in its college football season-opener Monday night, but in the process the Bruins found a quarterback.

Sophomore Rick Bashore, who battled for the starting berth with junior Steve Bukich last spring and this fall, was a late choice of Coach Terry Donahue to start for the Bruins in their nationally televised game at Houston.

Although UCLA blew a 13-3 halftime lead and lost 17-13, Bashore's debut was extremely successful. The 6-foot-1, 177-pounder from Fountain Valley, Calif., completed 16 of 27 passes for 245 yards and one touchdown.

Bashore's passing yardage was the most for a Bruin quarterback since Dennis Dummit compiled 252 yards through the air against Southern California in 1970.

"I thought under the circumstances Rick did a nice job for his first start," said Donahue Wednesday. "He did some very fine things and although he had some difficulty with fundamentals, he kept his poise throughout the game."

Donahue said that Bashore will start Saturday night when the Bruins, ranked 14th in the country, host the loss to Houston, despite the loss to Houston, host Kansas in their first home game of the season.

"I anticipated playing both quarterbacks against Houston and I anticipate playing both against Kansas," said Donahue. "But the game might change those plans as it did Monday night."

Running back Theotis Brown, who rushed for 1,092 yards last year, and kicker Frank Corral were the Bruins injured in the opener. Brown suffered a dislocated elbow and Corral a broken jaw. Both players are expected to be sidelined about six weeks.

Donahue said current plans have sophomore Ernie Saenz moving into Brown's starting spot. Sophomore Peter Boermeester will handle the placekicking chores in Corral's absence while sophomore Matt McFarland will do the punting for UCLA.

Defensive back Michael Coulter was pressed into service as a place-kicker following the injury to Corral at Houston because neither Boermeester nor McFarland was on the UCLA traveling squad.

Coulter missed two relatively short field goal attempts in the second half.

"I've been coaching 11 years and I had never had a kicker go out with an injury before this happened," said Donahue.

Kansas comes to town with an 0-1 record. The Jayhawks lost their opener to Texas A&M, ranked seventh in the country, 28-14 last Saturday.

"Kansas is an excellent football team," said Donahue. "They present preparation problems for our defense because they run out of both the wishbone and I-formations."

"The problems with Monday's game are difficult enough," added Donahue. "Now we've got to face the problems of this week's game with very little preparation time."

"We'll have our hands full trying to beat KU Saturday night, I promise you that."

Kicker remembers jungle

PITTSBURGH — He heard night sounds in the jungle before he heard the roar of a football crowd, but Dave Trout has won a job as a freshman place-kicker at the University of Pittsburgh.

"Where I lived was like those Tarzan movies, except no Tarzan," the 5-foot-6, 160-pounder said.

As an infant, Trout went to Bolivia with his parents, Baptist missionaries who visited remote regions of the Amazon Jungle. They lived in a mud house, ate vegetables they grew themselves and avoided reptiles — like the 20-foot snake whose skin they brought home.

"We were two weeks by riverboat from any town, but we'd come out for six months or so and that's when I'd get on a soccer team," said Trout, who started playing soccer in Bolivia shortly after he started walking.

"My dad was a football player in high school. He told me about how he played tackle and chewed tobacco," Trout said. "We had a football and my dad and I kicked it around a bit, but I never saw a football game until I came here."

The family returned to the United States because his mother needed an eye operation. They now reside in nearby Mt. Pleasant, Pa. Inspired by a Pitt game he saw on television, Trout gave football a try as a sophomore at Southmoreland High School.

"The coach had seen me kicking a soccer ball. I think he figured I was just another kid, but the first time I kicked off it went 60 yards and he liked that."

In his first high school game as a sophomore, Trout kicked a 48-yard field goal. He went on to a stand-out career that earned him a scholarship to Pitt and offers from many schools.

"I picked Pitt because it was close to home," said Trout, conveniently majoring in Spanish the language he spoke in Bolivia.

Trout won the Pitt kicking job in training camp. In an opening loss to Notre Dame, he made his only extra-point try, put his kickoffs into the end zone and missed a 55-yard field goal attempt.

"I've kicked 65 yards in practice, and I was really upset about missing," said Trout, whose kick hooked far to the left.

He figured the sellout crowd and the national television exposure might have been factors.

"I was scared. I really was. But I'm sure I'll loosen up more and more each game, and I think I'll do well this week against William & Mary. If I get a chance, I plan to make it."

Heavyweight Young outpoints Ballard

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Philadelphia Jim Young tuned up for his heavyweight boxing challenge showdown against Ken Norton by outpointing Jody Ballard Wednesday night in a 10-round bout which proved closer than expected.

Norton followed on the same card, meeting Lorenzo Zanon of Italy.

Young and Norton are scheduled to fight Nov. 5 to determine who will meet heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali if the latter beats Ernie Shavers in their match. Young, 213, the No. 2-ranked challenger in the World Boxing Council list, started sluggishly but warmed up in the third round and clearly outboxed his unranked 205-pound foe from Houston.

Under the Nevada five-point must system, where the referee does not score, judge Art Lurie tallied it 47-41, and the other two judges, Harold Buck and Dave Moretti each had 47-42. The Associated Press scored 47-43.

Miller — Grizzlies' answer to TD

Chris Miller

Meet California High's answer to the touchdown. It stands 5-11, weighs 175 pounds and drags bodies across goal lines.

"When Chris gets into a game he's an unreal competitor," said California High coach Mike McGinnis.

Tri-V wins

WOODLAND — Rich Keizer struck out ten batters to lead Tri-Valley to a 3-2 victory in Woodland Winter League action Tuesday night.

Keizer fired a four-hitter at Pete Young's of Woodland to put Tri-Valley up to third place in the league standings.

Tri-Valley took the lead with a two-run third inning. RBI singles by Wes Karch and Dan Wilkes keyed the visitors' rally.

Pete Young's came back with a single run in the bottom of the fourth, with Tri-Valley gaining the winning run in the top of the fifth. Young's rallied in the bottom of the last inning, but came up one run short as Keizer managed to wrap up the victory.

No batters on either team were able to come up with more than one hit, as Young's John Bartlett also pitched a good game. Besides Karch and Wilkes, of Mer Tri-Valley batters to hit safely included Keizer, Rick Menise, and Brian Swales.

after eyeballing the accomplishments of hard-charging fullback Chris Miller Saturday afternoon.

Like the some 500 witnesses who sat under sunny skies view viewing the Grizzlies' first victory in two years, a 28-6 drubbing over Benicia, McGinnis was charged by his running back's three-touchdown performance.

"Yeah," the coach said with a beaming smile, "Miller got off to a pretty good start. I just hope he can keep it going."

If Miller has anything to say about it, that task is already accomplished.

"I would like to gain over 150 yards a game," said the goal-minded speedster.

He'd also like to wrap up All-East Bay Athletic League honors as a running back.

"I made it last year but for special teams," explained the senior rusher. "That was okay, but this year I'd like to get it for full-back. That's important to me."

It's also important to him that he turn in showings equal to last weeks'. Miller carried 11 times for 145 yards for his trio of TDs. One of his scoring runs he swept right juked two players and out ran a handful of others down the sideline for the touchdown.

The big effort came from a guy who could care less about practicing.

"I really don't like to practice," he admitted. "If we played all the time I would take practice more seriously."

Unfortunately, Miller gets the chance to show off his fire power just once a week. But the opposition is fortunate to see him that often too.

"I really like to run," noted the powerful back. "There's nothing on earth better than the type of game I had today (Saturday)."

Miller, who rushed for 131 of his total yardage in the first half, also had scoring runs of eight and 10 yards.

"Chris is a real game player," said the Grizzly coach. "He does a lot to help out the others. I'm really pleased."

While Miller might get the headlines, it was the Grizzly front line — both offensively and defensively — that proved instrumental in the season opener.

Benicia coughed up the ball eight times on fumbles, losing the ball on six of those, and charged with 10 penalties for a grand total of 87 yards.

When the defensive line wasn't plugging the middle, Cal's defensive back corps was also showing some brilliance. Matt Duick, patrolling the backfield for the winners, picked off one errant Panther pass and returned it 19 yards.

"We played a lot of people on defense," McGinnis said. "But everybody we put in really did the job. I was very pleased with our defensive game."

Not only was the crowd treated to an afternoon of hardhitting action, but several records to boot.

Monte Vista names coach

"I work strictly from fundamentals and go from there," said Cathy Fisher, the newly-named girls' basketball coach at Monte Vista High.

Fisher will replace Barbara Tabler, who won four straight East Bay Athletic League titles before stepping down last spring, and the Mustang reliance on the fast break and a scrambling, hustling defense will most likely continue.

Fisher graduated from Long Beach State last year after playing four years of basketball for the powerful 49ers. At Long Beach, she roomed with Paula Gregory, a Monte Vista graduate and fine athlete for the Mustangs.

"I'm not a stickler for set plays," said Fisher, but she does believe in fundamentals and highly-organized practices. She also has coaching experience in volleyball and softball.

"I know I'm coming in behind something big," said Fisher, well aware of Tabler's previous success, but the new Monte Vista coach is optimistic.

"If we're ready, I'm not worried about what the other team does," she said. "We should be prepared for it."

Carl's sweeps

Carl's Drugs swept by C Division opponent Montgomery Wards, 15-8, 15-5, 15-4, in Tri-Valley Women's Volleyball League action Monday night.

Carl's was paced by Cindy Dunagon's hot serves in the first game, with Jane Wilson providing the winning serves in the third game. Donna Ecce was strong defensively with Terry Exner providing clutch plays to help give Carl's the victory.

Two new players, Anna Martinsen and Helen Sullivan turned in good performances for Montgomery Wards.

In another C Division contest, Swensen's of San Ramon defeated the Volley Jolly Dollies, 15-8, 10-15, 15-8.

Swensen's was led by Debbie Cleaver, Vicky Rager, and Carrie Patterson. Standouts for the Volley Dollies were Kathi Dilger, Norma Duncan.

American dumps Bell

Regular-season champion American Sports Supply opened up the D League Playoffs with a 5-2 win over Bell Engineering in LARP softball action last night at Max Baer Park in Livermore.

The winners scored three runs in the fourth inning, breaking a 1-1 tie, and sending the fourth-place engineers down to defeat.

American jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the top of the first on Jeff Champman's double and an RBI single by Scott Kone.

Bell tied it up in the bottom of the first when Bob Kuckuck, Jerry Dow, and Mike Moore bunched together a string of singles to score a run.

Bell was held scoreless until the sixth inning, when Woodie Manchester doubled and Moore singled to send Manchester to third. George Metz laced a sacrifice fly to center to plate Manchester.

However, American's big three-run fourth proved to be the difference. Rich Martin began the rally by reaching via an error that got him to second base, and he came home on Tom Eastman's RBI single. Chuch Mack's double sent him to third, while Jim Wright's infield grounder plated Eastman. Mack scored on George Griner's single.

American added a run in the fifth on Jerry Sandoval's lead-off double and Martin's two-out single.

For the winners, Mack went three-for-three with a pair of doubles, while Sandoval also hit two doubles. Dick Boyd added a single.

For Bell Engineering, Dow, Moore, and Kuckuck all singled twice, while Ken Rhodie, Bill Goodman, and Milt Grisson all singled.

Last night's second play-off contest, second place team Ron Monks Insurance battled third-place Oggies Swingers.

Ron Monks took an 8-6 win, breaking a 3-3 tie in the third with a pair of runs and adding three more in the fourth to put the game away.

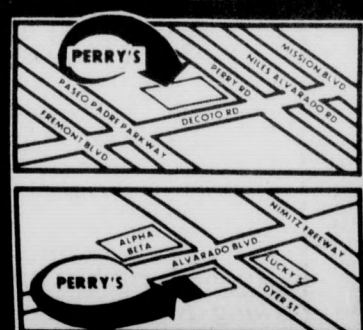

Oggies came back with a brief rally in the bottom of the seventh. Trailing 8-3, Jim Whitehead and Neil Zurkowski belted back-to-back doubles, Dennis Caldwell lofted a sacrifice fly, Keith Dayton singled in a run, and Zane Thomas plated another with a double. The losers left the tying run at the plate.

Brooks Spinelli's double was the only hit for Ron Monks in the first inning, but the winners scored a pair of runs after two errors by Oggies Swingers. Eric Lyons laced a sacrifice fly in the inning.

After Oggies made it 2-1 in the bottom half of the inning on a walk to Zurakowski and singles by Caldwell and Doug Pope, the insurance men went ahead 3-1 in the second.

anywhere — cannot take his position too seriously. I mentally tick off the Times' scoops of the past few weeks; the fact that high school football is back on radio, the fact that Foothill scheduled Alhambra instead of Northgate due to the Mt. Diablo school strike; more prominent stories on things the Herald has buried or treated as unimportant, and I can't exactly feel goosebumps of pride forming.

Nor would I hope that Hunt thrills over the fact that the Herald has beaten us to several high school coaching changes and the appointment of a new youth director at Granada Bowl.

Bicycling named most hazardous

WASHINGTON — If you think playing football is more dangerous than riding a bicycle, you're in for a surprise — and maybe a bruise or two, too.

The National Injury Information Clearinghouse, a government agency, compiles an extensive list of how Americans are hurt every year, including the likelihood of being injured through a variety of sports. It is produced for the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

As happens every year, bicycles are the runaway sports winner for hurting people. The danger index of bicycles is nearly three times as high as the next most dangerous sport, football.

The index compiles all injuries associated with the product or sport, no matter whether they occur in organized activity or casual play. It is developed by reports from hospitals across the country. Following a complicated calculation, each item is assigned a number based both on the frequency of injuries and their severity.

Popular sports produce more injuries than those with fewer participants and get a higher ranking on the list. Sports with more severe injuries also get higher ratings, as do those which injure more children than adults.

Still, experts say the list gives some guidance to the dangers involved with various activities.

While bicycles top the list, their less popular single-wheeled counterparts, unicycles, are last.

The listing ranks bicycling, football, baseball, swimming and basketball as the five most dangerous sports. The growing popularity of skateboards has pushed that activity into sixth place, followed by fishing, which outranks such activities as skiing, kung fu and hockey.

A's drop doubleheader to Royals

KANSAS CITY — Dennis Leonard hurled an eight-hitter and Tom Poquette and John Mayberry each drove in two runs, propelling the sizzling Kansas City Royals to a 6-0 victory over the Oakland A's Wednesday night for a sweep of their doubleheader.

The sweep, which included a 5-2 opening-game triumph, stretched the Royals' winning streak to 14 games, the longest in the major leagues this season. Kansas City, winner of 25 of its last 28 games and owner of the best winning percentage in the majors at .622, also shrunk its magic number to 10 in the American League West.

In the first game, Jim Colborn scattered seven hits but needed relief from Larry Gura in the final two innings to improve his record to 17-13.

Leonard, 17-11, struck out three, giving him 208 for the season, second best in the American League this year behind California's Nolan Ryan. The loss went to Oakland starter Matt Keough, 0-2.

In an oddity, Jeff Newman of Oakland started the second game as a catcher and finished as a pitcher, giving up one hit and no runs in one inning.

Rose has hat trick, Nomads win

Chris Rose booted in three goals to lead the Nomads to a 4-1 win over the Neutrons in Ballistic United-Under-14 boys' soccer action.

Robert LaFountain added the other Nomad goal. Bruce Row scored the Neutrons goal off an assist from Steve Hill.

Troy Smith did a good job on defense for the Neutrons. Rob Faggiano also played well for the losers.

The Nomads rolled over the Nordics 5-2. John Polidori, and Scott Sabatia scored single goals for the winners. Jim Dillion led with two.

Murry Michael and John Hol each had five saves for the Nobles. Barry Moore also played well.

The Pirates shutout the Arsonals 3-0. Miles Hall had two goals and Matt Duffy added one for the winners.

Don Hopprzak had 15 saves for the victors. Mike Healy, Robert Roval and Budd Edney played well on defense.

Rod Getty had 18 saves in the net for the losers. Jeff Corbett was a defensive star for the Arsonals.

The Pythons clubbed the Pacers 6-0. Brian Farro and Rick Johnson each scored twice for the winners. Saul Flores and Steve Raymond added single goals.

Vierri Mueller had eight saves for the winners. Brian Williams and Mike Wilson also played well.

Craig Schoendienst had 10 saves and John Lombard four for the losers. Tim Aslin, Russ Hopner and Paul Holes played well on defense.

In under-12 competition Ed McMahon had three goals to lead the Vegas past the Vipers, 6-2. Darren Vassiss, Jim Nash and David Humphrey each had one goal.

Rocky Dinos and Randy Chrminti scored the Vipers' goals.

Jargen Ruttkie was the Viper goalie. Mike McMahon and Butch Holmes starred on defense for the winners.

The Vikings rolled over the Vampires 10-2.

Billy Walters had four goals to lead the winners. Erik Hudson and Joe Schwab had two goals apiece.

Chris Wayne and Andy Persson added single goals. Dale Yahrmatter, David Bowker and Steve Watson also played well for the winners.

The Vulcans topped the Vultures 3-1.

Greg Liski, Rick Farro and Steve Crawford each scored once for the winners. Victor Victoria and Steve Torres added assists. Mark Harrison had four saves for the winners. Greg Liske and Martin Gibson were defensive standouts and Greg Strommer played a fine all-around game.

Scott Reali had six saves for the losers. Jim Marshall and Kevin Musket also stood out for the Vultures.

Howell sails on

Jon Howell of Pleasanton and Mike Bruzone recently completed in the Western Regional Flying Junior sailing event held at Huntington Lake, 50 miles east of Fresno.

A senior at Foothill High School, Howell and his partner, who skipped the entry, placed 11th in a field of 40 boats.

An entry from the Stanford Sailing Club won the event, which consisted of a series of races over courses from two to eight miles in length.

Howell's father was navigator of a Transpac Yacht Race entry in early summer.

Jon hopes to gain experience now in cruising sail boats and the Howell family is considering entering its yacht in future races on the west coast.

Shamara choice in Silver?

SAN MATEO — Shamara, who captured the Mother Lode Handicap at the California State Fair this summer, tops a field of nine in this afternoon's $8000 Silver Kings and Queens Purse at Bay Meadows.

Meryl Ann Tanz's four-year old daughter of Dewan boasted only one win on the season when she took the track against a full field in the Mother Lode. However, the only time Shamara had been off the board in nine Southern California starts was in the Osunitas Stakes at Del Mar.

Her fine current form, plus the bonus of carrying perennial Bay Meadows jockey-leader A.L. Diaz, at 120 pounds, makes the Mike Mitchell-trained distaffer the early favorite.

Goldie's Goldian, a Canadian-bred daughter of Viceroyal, is another gem of consistency. She has her sights on the 30th running of the Santa Clara Stakes Sept. 30, but must get over Thursday's one mile barrier, her first test around two turns.

Octavio Ramirez, who guided Goldie's Goldian to a four-length win last Wednesday at San Mateo once again gets the call from trainer Dent Caton. Meeting older horses for the first time, Goldie's Goldian is favorably weighted at 109 pounds.

Stakes-placed mares Perfect Portion and Honeyhugger will also make their presence felt over the distance. Bill Mahorney gets the call on Perfect Portion and will share the high weight of 120 pounds.

Veteran Roy Yaka, now devoting full time to the Bay Area scene after splitting his summer between the fairs and Seattle's Longacres track, packs 113 pounds on Honeyhugger.

Completing the field are Jamboree Jane, Jack Artburn up; Tatting, Mark Couto up; Zulla Road, apprentice Thomas Chapman (up from Del Mar) up; Pleasure Bird, Ross Allard up; and Fairway Phyllis, with Jorge Aragon in the saddle.

Underrated Rancher

LIVERMORE — Tucked away in the Rincon shopping center hides a one-story, almost windowless building where even the heartiest steak-eater can fulfill the ol' appetite.

Just to the left of the shamrock on the marquee are big black bold letters spelling out "The Rancher" — a symbol for the source of the fine food within. The Rancher is probably the most under-rated steak house in Livermore but anyone who has eaten there knows that the service and atmosphere at this homespun ranch house equals their selection of food.

The decor is simple but slightly on the antique side with ornaments from days of old scattered about the wooden walls. Such things as a rustic bellow for a fireplace, assorted gear for horses, and an outstanding collection of hand-painted dishes set off the crude beams supporting the high ceiling.

Huge pictures with scenes of the past hang within an arm's reach of tables along the wall.

Shining silverware and glistening plates preset on red and white checkered tablecloths brighten up the dark secluded dining room. A fanned napkin marks each place where customers sit.

Dining out

Broadway's sole survivor

Broadway has been death on good San Francisco restaurants. In the past decade the sleaze and sex trade has caused the demise of fine establishments like Del Vecchio's, New Joe's, and La Strada. A few remain to wage a grim war with bare-chest bars but the tourist dollar stretches only so far.

Which makes the opening of Jovanello's just five years ago one of the great gambles in food. It began operation in 1972 at Broadway and Sansome while other dining houses were capitulating. Happily, it has thrived where others failed. The reasons vary. For one, Jovanello's is at the foot of Broadway, partially removed from the barkers and bosoms up the street. Therefore it doesn't rely on the whimsies of thrill-seekers from Iowa City. What's more, it serves some of the best Italian food in San Francisco.

Jovanello's is next door to the Italian-American Hotel, two doors down from a Soy Sauce factory. Inside, there is no question of national origin.

The place is dark, windowless and busy with chatter, almost too hectic for a dining house that is definitely not family style. But then Italians don't require peace at the dinner table. Joyous frenzy is more like it.

Prosciutto and melon is a traditional appetizer with a price befitting those delicate strips of cured pork, $3.95. It is available with a complete dinner instead of salad or minestrone.

Salads are served simply with mixed greens, tomato and an average vinegar and oil. They are adorned from an ample relish tray with garbanzo and kidney beans and tender chunks of white albacor, lightly marinated.

Minestrone is served in a small cup, laden with vegetables and thickened to a proper consistency.

Jovanello's offers a good paste selection a la carte, but the best, cannelloni, is served with complete dinners. Ground veal filling is packed tightly into the paste shell, and covered by an excellent cream sauce, all topped with melted cheese.

It is an extremely rich dish, and would make a fine entree selection backed up by a tossed salad.

Veal is served an infinite number of ways on the menu including a sauteed veal steak dish with a pesto topping.

Saltimbocca is extraordinary, if a bit unconventional. This veal dish is usually rolled, then stuffed with cheese and prosciutto. At Jovanello's, two thin veal fillets are topped with prosciutto strips, then the dish is covered with the melted cheese, which forms a fine bubble over the veal. It was exquisite and not dry, as Saltimbocca can sometimes turn out.

Veal Scallopini was done in a dark wine sauce, and the meat was almost hidden by fresh mushrooms. The sauce was mild enough to remain in the background of tastes, the fine veal flavor instead dominating.

The same held true for Chicken Toscana, one-half a chicken sauteed in a light sauce with bellpepper and mushroom. The clear, wine sauce was again a pleasant adornment, not the key feature of the dish.

All entrees were served with fresh green beans, sauteed with bacon.

Prices for complete dinners range from $8.50 up to $12, but for some, there may be too much food to eat. That is a shame, because it is all good.

Abracadabra

Lee Grabel's exciting Broadway mystery extravaganza.

Presto, magic fans

The most spectacular family magic show ever seen, featuring giant stage illusions seldom presented will be offered by internationally honored Magician Lee Grabel with performances throughout the East Bay sponsored by various civic and service organizations.

Among the spectacular illusions will be the famous floating piano, the outstanding disappearing horse and shooting a girl from a cannon. The schedule, with all performances at 7 p.m., includes: Pleasanton Alameda Fair Grounds, Sept. 23; Campolinda High Auditorium, Moraga, Sept. 24; Concord High Auditorium, Concord, Sept. 26; Antioch High School, Antioch, Sept. 27; Canyon High Auditorium, Castro Valley, Sept. 28; Chabot College Auditorium, Hayward, Sept. 29; San Pablo on Sept. 30 and Inverton High Auditorium, Fremont, Oct. 4.

Sponsors include the Lions Club in Pleasanton, Moraga, Castro Valley, Hayward, San Pablo and Fremont; The Optimist Club of Concord and the Delta Kiwanis Club of Antioch.

Tickets may be obtained from service club members, at the door prior to each performance or throughout any Ticketron outlet in this area.

The show has been hailed as the most exciting family show presented in America today.

BART can't make it alone

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate is throwing its weight behind the Assembly's opinion that BART just can't make it without a permanent half-cent sales tax.

The issue came up again Tuesday and the Senate crumpled three amendments to establish cutoff dates in either 1980, 1981 or 1982 for the tax, due to expire June 30, 1978.

So AB 1107, the bill to grant an indefinite extension, heads for a floor vote under the impulsion of a 60-2 midsummer approval by the Assembly and the guidance of its author, Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, acknowledged as the state's most powerful legislator.

The cutoff amendments were introduced by Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco. He said the directors of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District are sure they could get the usual short-term extensions only by asking. But he said the legislature has no right to establish a permanent tax without the approval of the people.

"Give them the money but don't give them a permanent tax," Marks pleaded.

Backers of the tax say it will raise about $47 million a year. They say BART can't lay plans on a series of uncertain extensions.

Said Sen. Nicholas Petrakis, D-Oakland: "We'll be more honest with the people when we admit to ourselves that the problems are so great we're not likely to get rid of that half-cent sales tax."

But Sen. John Holmdahl, D-Castro Valley, protested that in Contra Costa and Alameda counties, there are hundreds of thousands of people who have no chance of using BART and no chance of ever getting the service.

The new look at Sizzler

Sizzler manager Herb Slack has been busy lately changing the image of his restaurant at 3064 Pacific Ave. in Livermore. He has added a new char-broiler, new uniforms, and has remodeled the kitchen.

One new addition that is a real plus for hot days is their new air conditioner which gives a cool atmosphere while you are enjoying one of their many fine dinners.

They offer a variety of specials to meet your taste buds at the time. In the surf and turf category are two delights: The Steak and Deep Sea Finger Lobster selling for a mere $3.99; and the unique Steak and Langostino advertized at $2.99.

Sizzler features as many as eight luncheon specials ranging from a cold plate attraction to barbecue spare ribs.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings Herb said the bargain is all the barbecue spare ribs you can eat for only $2.99.

Waitress service is offered for Friday and the weekends with new hours being 11 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Stop by the new Sizzler near the Lucky shopping center off South Livermore Ave. and join the people who know where a good meal is.

Emerson's — the plum of steak houses

Monday night is not known as a prime time to go out on the town seeking fine dining and entertainment. Most households are preoccupied with the Monday night football game or would rather spend the evening recuperating from a hectic weekend.

However, not far from the hustle and bustle of the nation's capital — on Duke Street in Alexandria, Va. — is a crowd of Monday night diners waiting in line for the bargain of all bargains at the plum of all steak houses.

The name of the place is Emerson's. And, for a mere 595 pennies (provided they haven't upped the cost a dollar or so since 1974) you can eat all the steak, french fries, and salad your little tummy can handle.

What's more is that the bargain holds true for all the beer you can drink on that festive Monday night.

Emerson's is a classy place with many thinly clad waitress scurrying from kitchen to table always on hand to deliver the finest service without musing their red mini-skirts or colonial bleach white blouses.

Brenda Sellers is giving that customary Dairy Queen grin as she adds the finishing touch to a batch of buster bars — a nice cool treat for these hot September days.

The DQ is a must stop for a hot gang of soccer players who have developed a taste for ice cream while running hither and thither about the soccer field.

It's a great place to cash in on dad's bet of one strawberry milk shake the old man wagered for any team member who scores a goal.

Next time you're driving down Second Street in Livermore stop by the Dairy Queen and try out one of their many floats, shakes, or hot fudge Sundays.

Or, for a hearty meal try their Brazier burger with a coke and an order of fries. It's guaranteed to pop the buttons on your shirt if their milk shakes haven't already.

Give them a call at 447-1687 and check out their fine selection of ice cream delights.

Tax relief

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A $4.48-billion tax relief bill promising annual rebate checks for 6.8 million Californians was approved by special legislative committee early today.

The tax plan, which is $280 million smaller than a bill rejected 12 days ago by the state Senate, is slated for final votes in the Senate and Assembly on Thursday, the last day of the 1977 session of the California Legislature.

The bill finalized in 11 hours of hearings Tuesday and early today follows the general outline of the plan which the Senate rejected on a 16-23 vote Sept. 12.

It offers annual rebates averaging $225 to $250 to 4.2 million homeowners and $118 to 2.6 million renters, plus elimination of the business inventory tax.

But the marathon hearings of the six-man committee which rewrote the bill produced relatively minor changes which backers say give it better than even chances of passage.

Park probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leon Jaworski, heading the investigation into alleged South Korean efforts to buy congressional influence, is weighing an invitation to take the probe to Seoul.

Jaworski was due to make a statement today, but aides would not elaborate on whether he would respond to the Koreans' offer to let him talk to Tong-sun Park, the rice dealer implicated in the alleged influence-buying scheme.

Three new shows tonight, don't hold your breath

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three new series wobble in tonight — a California Highway Patrol party called "CHIPS" on NBC, and ABC's "Carter Country" sitcom and Redd Foxx's new comedy, music and oldtimes hour.

We warn right off the bat that NBC's entry is a stone dog. Intended as action without gunfire, it is show without mind. It stars Larry Wilcox and Erik Estrada as two cheery motorcycle cops.

Wilcox is your basic All-American, aw-shucks boy. Estrada plays the lady-killer, "Ponch." He has a crooked smile, but straight teeth. Both are dashing young bachelors, Kawasaki Kids, if you will.

In their premiere hour, they roar about, grin, meet a pretty crash victim and bring a hotcar ring to justice. Ponch also gets to fall in a mess of spilled glue and emit such classic lines as:

"If I ever scope that turkey again, I'm gonna pull him out through his wind wing, seat belt attached."

Second place in the dialogue derby goes to a stewardess on whom Ponch is putting the make. Says she: "London is a neat town."

ABC's "Carter Country" is about a young, New York-trained black cop (Kene Holliday) who is a sergeant on the small-town, once all-white Georgia constabulary of Victor French, who plays the police chief.

Tonight's premiere involves a presidential visit; French's fried chicken; a man-hungry, middle-aged secretary; a low-key redneck in police blue and a mayor who fears only his mother and French.

If the show has a memorable line, I forgot it. It's just another Hollywood attempt at Southern humor, with a few affirmative-action and mild racial gags tossed in to indicate progress.

Which brings to mind what Oscar Levant once said in improving a sponsor's slogan: "Progress is our most important product... the merchandise is secondary."

The Redd Foxx hour on ABC has the only hope of success among tonight's new entries, and that hope is faint unless he relies more on improved skits and less on a friendly, laugh-at-anything studio audience.

He opens with a good bit involving two bogus world leaders, and follows with a passable monologue in which he notes ABC's censors "decided the only thing I could do from my night club act is smoke..."

But things bog down with now-obligatory Anita Bryant jokes; a skit on how a black named Yuma, Ariz.; a massage parlor routine, and a scene from "The Wiz" we saw on H. Cosell's variety show two years ago.

Still, three good moments are worth your time — a too-brief visit from Iron Jaw Wilson, an old Foxx pal; a surprisingly good reading of "Easy to Love" by Foxx, and a largely silent routine about inventors.

Networks gearing up for football blitz

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro football, television's premier sports attraction, gets rolling this weekend with major changes at NBC, a stand-pat attitude at CBS and the return of Dandy Don Meredith to ABC among the highlights.

Last time around, ABC, with its Monday night game, and CBS, with its National Conference games, both enjoyed increased ratings while the numbers for NBC's American Conference games were down. When CBS and NBC went head to head, primarily on Sunday afternoons, CBS averaged a 17.1 rating, meaning 17.1 per cent of TV sets in the nation were tuned to CBS, while NBC got a 13.4. That represented about a 20 per cent increase over 1975 for CBS and a six per cent decline for NBC.

In addition, CBS's "The NFL Today," its pregame, halftime and post-game show, buried NBC's "Grandstand." Clearly, something had to be done. NBC has responded by junking "Grandstand" and will introduce a new show Sunday, "NFL '77." The show will be devoted to pro football for the most part and is being put together largely by Larry Merchant, the former newspaperman-turned-TV analyst.

Lee Leonard and Bryant Gumble, refugees from "Grandstand," will host the new show which boasts a weekly commentary on the pro grid scene by Minnesota Viking quarterback Fran Tarkenton, live pickups from game sites featuring analysis by NBC's stable of ex-players, an innovative series of features and, last but not least, a footballcrazy robot named Statz.

"Statz is going to forecast the outcome of games and many other things," says Merchant. "Going into the first game Statz will already know the result of the Super Bowl. He will be able to come up with any number of statistics to show why one team is successful and another isn't. He'll be funny and we hope to develop his personality."

Merchant says Statz, who will be pumped full of information by a computer, will be far more than simply the mechanical equivalent of CBS' Jimmy the Greek. "He'll certainly be more up front," says Merchant. "The Greek doesn't make predictions. He just tells you the betting line. Statz will tell you that Los Angeles is going to beat Atlanta 22-7."

Merchant will contribute pieces to the show from time to time and his first contribution Sunday promises to be a beauty. He took a film crew to India for a report on Joe Don Looney, the eccentric former running back who played for five NFL teams in five years. Looney, believe it or not, has found peace as an elephant boy at a religious community.

"This piece is the most unbelievable thing I've ever done," says Merchant. "I've been in sports for a long time but this is the topper."

Sanford and Son

1972-1977

Entertainer Redd Foxx lays to rest his former series "Sanford and Son" when he's host for the premiere of his new "Redd Foxx" show at 10 p.m. Thursday on Channels 7, 11, and 13.

GE honors energy saver

A Pleasanton man will be among the top six G.E. Vallecitos employees honored tomorrow for suggesting energy saving tips that cut the plant's energy consumption by 23 per cent last month.

Don Wadekamper offered a suggestion of turning off equipment not in use and will receive a pen and pencil set from the grateful G.E. Vallecitos people.

County supervisors and John Cooper, PG&E energy conservation head, will participate in the ceremonies at 1 p.m.

The best energy saving suggestion came from a Fremont employee who recommended putting a timer on heating boilers so they turn off when outside air temperature is above 60 degrees. His tip will save from $1,000 to $2,500 in energy cost. Besides the top six awards, some 34 other employees will receive tokens of appreciation for submitting suggestions.

The tips resulted in 23 per cent less energy usage over the comparable month last year. The cuts are in areas other than the test reactor, which accounts for 50 per cent of Vallecitos' energy use.

Cancer signs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is pressing Congress to support plans to place cancer warnings on diet foods, soft drinks and other products containing saccharin.

Four administration officials urged the Senate on Tuesday to pass legislation requiring the health warnings on product labels and in advertising.

Canadian studies have shown that saccharin, widely used in diet foods and diet sodas, causes cancer in animals and may cause bladder cancer.

The administration apparently is resorting to health warnings in view of indicators that lawmakers, under pressure from many voters, are unwilling to permit the government to ban most sales of saccharin.

In our World, Saturdays include free breakfast.

We'd like to make your weekends a little nicer. So in addition to our normally long hours (9 to 5 weekdays, 9 to 6 Fridays), World Savings is open Saturdays from 9 to 3.

Join us this Saturday. Let us treat you to the free breakfast we serve all day long: a really good cup of hot coffee and some of the best donuts in town.

Ask about our many, many free financial services—and how your savings can earn maximum interest in the shortest time allowed by Federal regulation for savings and loans.

There's a World Savings office that's near you. Stop by. You'll find our World is a great place to start the weekend.

'Enriched Flavor' Tobacco!

MERIT technology making "good taste" a reality for low tar smoking.

There is a way to pack flavor — extra flavor — into a low tar cigarette. MERIT proved it.

By cracking cigarette smoke down into separate elements, researchers were able to isolate certain "flavor-rich" ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

The result was 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco that delivers the kind of taste smokers can switch to. And stick with.

"Several months ago, I tried Merit, and have been smoking them ever since. They are the first low tar cigarette that actually tastes good."

REGULAR & MENTHOL

This kind of smoker enthusiasm is typical of what smokers are saying about the taste of MERIT.

"MERIT is the only brand in low tar to give me the flavor and satisfaction that I had been looking for."

—Cecilia Beberman
Wantagh, New York

"The first pack of MERIT MENTHOL did it. I was immediately impressed with the taste."

—Raymond T. Abdoo
Suffield, Ohio

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And you can taste it.
